Food Security Situation*

• Sudan continues to cope with the effects of conflict, displacement, insecurity, and natural disasters. In addition to the significant internally displaced and returnee populations from two internal conflicts, Sudan hosts refugees from Eritrea, Chad, Ethiopia and other countries. Sudan also remains vulnerable to seasonal shocks, such as flooding and drought, which impact food security and exacerbate the humanitarian emergency.

• It is estimated that approximately four million people are currently food insecure. In Darfur, the majority of the two million IDPs are in crisis and 50 percent of the resident/host communities in the drought-affected areas of Darfur are stressed.

• Seasonal rains began very poorly in key sorghum-producing areas with substantial impacts on crop prospects. Below average production, exacerbated by ongoing conflict in key cropping areas is expected to drive above-average needs during 2012.
